a) Write the passage in precise form

The rule of law is a fundamental principle in democratic societies, ensuring that laws are supreme and apply equally to all individuals, irrespective of status. The concept was popularized by A.V. Dicey, who emphasized three key elements: supremacy of law, equality before the law, and the predominance of legal spirit. This doctrine prevents arbitrary use of power by the government and guarantees fairness and justice in governance. However, the rule of law faces challenges, particularly in nations where corruption, political influence, and weak judicial systems undermine legal enforcement. While constitutional provisions safeguard legal rights, the effectiveness of the rule of law depends on an independent judiciary, strong legal institutions, and public awareness. In modern times, technological advancements and globalization further test the adaptability of legal frameworks. For a truly just society, the rule of law must be continuously upheld, reformed, and implemented without bias.

b) Read the following passage and translate in Marathi/Hindi.

Domestic violence affects millions of individuals, particularly women, despite legal protections. The Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005, provides safeguards against physical, emotional, and economic abuse. However, societal stigma, lack of awareness, and underreporting hinder effective implementation. Fast-track courts and sensitive law enforcement mechanisms can improve access to justice. Economic independence, education, and community support are essential in empowering survivors. Legal frameworks must be strengthened and enforced strictly to eliminate domestic abuse and create a safer society for all individuals.

OR

Write the given passage in paraphrasing form.

The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, balances rehabilitation and accountability for juvenile offenders. While minors committing serious crimes can be tried as adults, the law prioritizes reform over punishment. However, challenges like overcrowded juvenile homes, lack of rehabilitation programs, and social stigma hinder reintegration. Courts emphasize that education, skill development, and counseling should be key aspects of juvenile justice. Strengthening child protection laws, ensuring psychological support, and addressing root causes of juvenile delinquency are crucial for a child-friendly justice system.
